Winter 2022 Newsletter

Message from the Principal

Happy New Year and welcome to 2022! Our students, families and staff truly need to be thanked for making the best of all situations to help lead us into 2022 with big goals and even bigger dreams. We have worked together to achieve great things this last year. As we look forward, we will continue to monitor the situation locally as we may have to deal with COVID spikes or a community infection increase. If this were to occur, we would inform you all as we have done in the past to alert you to the need to change some school procedures out of safety and proactivity. We have been down this path before and if we venture down it again, we will work together to make it the best for student and staff safety along with keeping the continuity of learning going. We will continue to move forward in supporting all during these unique times and I thought it might be good to provide some ideas to continue supporting your children at home. Here are practical items that can be implemented daily as a family to support your family during these times.

1. Begin with Gratitude Practice

This activity is incredibly beneficial for children, as well as adults. On paper, list three things that you and your child are grateful for. Gratitude statements will look different for every child of any age, but the benefit behind this activity is all about shifting perspective.

2. Set Intentions

At the beginning of the day (or as close to it as possible) sit down with your kids and have them list 2-3 things that would make today a great day for them. With our hyperconnected and overstimulating lives, there are dozens of distractions that vie for your child's attention from the moment he or she wakes up. Setting a habit to focus their attention facilitates mindfulness and personal responsibility.

Help your kids set intentions by asking questions like:

- What would make you proud today?
- What would you like to build or nurture today?
- What do you want to accomplish today?
- How do you want to treat yourself and others today?
- Is there something you'd like to let go of today?

In what ways could setting intentions help your children grow into their best selves?

3. Develop a Nighttime Routine

Few things are as crucial for your child's mental health and cognition than adequate sleep.

Sleep has been shown to influence elements of mental health including "depression, anxiety, impulsive behavior, and cognitive performance" according to a study in Molecular Psychiatry (3). In the evening, swap devices that emit blue light (like phones, tablets, or computers) with a book or other activity. Then, develop a nighttime routine that works for you and your child.

4. Challenge Negative Thoughts

Many children and adults are prone to worrying, whether it's about the future, the past, or just parts of life that aren't ideal. It's normal and healthy to have these thoughts, but it's also beneficial to have a way to challenge them, so they don't drain your child's energy, and leave him or her prone to feelings of anxiety or depression. With practice, you can help your child replace their negative thought patterns. Have your child write down or verbalize worries or concerns he or she has. Then, help them understand how accurate or realistic the thought is.

How likely is it that their worry will occur? If it does, how will they react to it? Would feeling more capable make their worry less scary? Explore alternative outcomes with your child.

5. Nurture Hobbies and Interests

Children develop important goal-setting and confidence in the pursuit of a hobby, sport, or other interest. Not only does growing a skill in their free time keep their mind active and curious, but it provides a significant boost in self-esteem by showing them how they can improve skills over time and with practice. Reinforcing your child's self-esteem will support feelings of individual empowerment and trust in their own abilities when challenges arise. Encourage your kids to experiment with recreational activities until they find one that suits their interests. Some children gravitate towards sports, others toward knowledge-based activities, and some enjoy creative outlets like painting or writing. Don't hesitate to develop shared hobbies with your kids! This shows support and is a great time to bond together.

6. Have a Well-Rounded View of Mental Health

Mental health is heavily influenced by overall health, and this includes physical, nutritional, and emotional health. Show your kids the benefits of using food as fuel for a healthy body, talk positively about movement and exercise, and set an example by practicing these activities yourself. Set aside time each day to take breaks outdoors. Children benefit from releasing excess energy in the form of play and physical activity.

7. Help Your Kids Find Their “Tribe”

Kids (and adults) thrive in groups of their peers. When your child has a close-knit group of supportive friends, he or she is more likely to succeed in both academics and social life.

Children need a supportive peer group with which to share excitement, concerns, hopes, and dreams. Friendship is an important part of social development, as it fosters empathy and emotional maturity.

8. Journaling

Research—as well as anecdotal evidence—points heavily toward the benefits of journaling for children. Not the least of which are better immune function, reduced stress, and higher test scores. Journaling helps children develop “emotional literacy” or the ability to name and recognize a variety of emotions. Daily journaling might seem like a lot to keep up with in a busy family—and that’s okay. Though it may be sporadic and take encouragement for the first few weeks, journaling is an important part of helping your child with the next section!

9. Take Time to Articulate Feelings

Learning to express feelings helps children build self-awareness and regulate their emotions. Not only does this mean they’ll be better able to communicate their feelings, but they’ll be more likely to approach them from a rational perspective. Often, when children and young adults are feeling challenged, they may lack the ability to communicate how a particular event or action has impacted them. After a stressful event, help your kids identify and explain how they’re feeling, so they can learn to process big emotions with words, rather than by lashing out.

10. Share Your Own Feelings

Your children see you as a role model for everything, whether you or they realize it or not. Sharing your feelings normalizes dealing with “big” feelings instead of bottling them up.

Instead of hiding big emotions, such as grief or anger, explain to your kids (in as age-appropriate a way as possible) why you’re feeling this way, what happened, and how you’re addressing it today. Having an example of healthy coping behaviors will follow them through life.

As always, the school is here to help all families and students, feel free to reach out to your child’s teacher, school counselor or the administrative team for we want all students to learn and achieve!

News from our PTO...

Hello BRE Families! We hope you all had a wonderful Holiday break! Can you believe that we're already entering the third quarter of school? PTO has felt so much support this year already, and we are excited for some events that are planned!

We have two Spirit Nights set up already. The first will be held at Texas Roadhouse at the end of January. The February Spirit Night will be held at Panera Bread. So skip cooking and help support the PTO.

BRE will be hosting a family bonfire event 2/4. Coach B will make a bonfire for everyone to enjoy on the kickball field! The Fairytale Ball will be happening this year! This is a fun event for Fathers to enjoy with their Daughters. It will again be hosted by Oasis Church.

We are looking for volunteers to help plan our Spring Gala. If you are interested in helping with this event, please email BREpto6125@Gmail.com. We thank all of the volunteers we've had thus far for our previous events.

Last but certainly not least, we are having our first PTO meeting of the year January 20th, with the next one being February 17th. Both meetings start at 6:00 and will be held on campus in the library as well as via Zoom. Childcare will be provided in the cafeteria for school aged children. We encourage you to come see what our PTO is all about!

All the Best!

Co-Presidents, Nicole Kotlarczyk and Nicole Wells

Nurse's News

Happy New Year from the Nurses! We hope everyone had a safe and healthy Winter Break with family & friends.

The school year is about halfway over. We will continue health screenings and work toward the goal of screening 100% of kindergarten, first and third graders. If your student is not in one of these grade levels but having a difficult time seeing or hearing in the classroom, please reach out and we can screen them as well. There is a financial assistance program for vision exams and glasses to families with no insurance if you qualify. Please reach out to your school nurse at 941-751-7012 extension 57004 if you would like more information.

February is National Children's Dental Health Month.

We will spend time educating students on the importance of good dental health habits like brushing, flossing and avoiding sugary drinks.

We also want to remind parents of the importance of scheduling regular dental visits to help children get a good start on a lifetime of healthy teeth and gums. If you do not have dental insurance through your employer you can apply through Florida KidCare. It is free to apply and they offer year-round enrollment options. Please visit www.floridakidcare.org to get more information.

Florida KidCare

Thanks for everything you do to keep our students safe and stay healthy!

Beverly Roseman RN & Nicole Wells RN

P.S. The clinic still needs gently used children's sneakers (all sizes) and uniform bottoms for boys and girls--all sizes are appreciated but we especially need sizes 4T-6 at this time. If your student has outgrown any of these items, please consider donating them to the clinic. Thank you so much!

Battle of the Books

Battle of the Books has begun! This school-wide event will go from January 10-April 29. During our kick-off event, students walked through hallways collecting book titles and learning about all the cool books to read, take quizzes on and earn neat prizes along the way. Students who participate will then have the opportunity to attend the Battle Bowl on April 29, competing against their classmates to gain the trophy of being the Battle of the Books Champion! The list of books in this event are listed below.

ATTENTION

Please have your child wear sneakers (no sandals, Crocs, heels, boots, etc.) on days that he/she will have P.E. Proper attire will help us keep your child safe. Students are welcome to bring water bottles to P.E., especially during the hotter months. Please send in a note or doctor's excuse if your child cannot participate in P.E. because of an injury or illness. This will help us monitor the situation and keep your child as safe as possible.

Safety Reminder for Students

Students walking to school—check your paths for safety, observe traffic signs, and cross the road inside of crosswalks.

Bike Riders don't forget: WEAR A HELMET! IT'S THE LAW!

Students may not be dropped off in the Middle School parking lot.

If parents choose to do Parent Walk Up, parents MUST accompany the students while in the parking lot and through the crosswalk up to the designated drop off area.

Your students have been creating amazing art this past semester.

One of our 5th grade students, Maya Tran, had her art accepted into the Embracing Our Differences international art exhibit. It will be enlarged to the size of a billboard and displayed along with 50 other selections from around the world. Her art is among the “Rising Stars” and will be on display at Bayfront Park January 15th through April 10th. You can also view the 2022 exhibit online at embracingourdifferences.org and click on “Rising Stars”.

This quarter most students will be painting, working with clay and/or Model Magic dough to create 3D pottery or sculptures.

Our 2nd and 3rd grade students have been working on images that were shared with Braden River High School art students. This is a collaborative project in which the high school students will create an image inspired by some of our students’ art. We will see the results of this in the Spring.

We will begin our annual art fundraiser with Art to Remember in March. Your child will bring home a packet with their art image featured in it. All orders will be done online and arrive in plenty of time for Mother’s Day. This is a great way to support your child and their creativity as well as our school’s art program. The students can’t wait to bring home their fundraiser items to show you. Thank you for all you do to support us!

Mrs. Kushmer

Attendance in School is linked to Success in School!

When students arrive late or leave early from school, it is a disruption for not only your child, but the teacher and their classmates. We encourage all students to arrive on time and spend the full day at school.

8:25am – 2nd bell rings for students to enter their classrooms. Students arriving after this time are considered Tardy and need to report to the front office to sign in.

2:30pm – The latest time you can pick up a student early from school from the office. This is a minimum of 45 minutes of class time that the student is missing when picked up early.

PurposeFULL People

January - Kindness: the choice to act with words, gifts, or actions to bring appreciation, positivity, and encouragement to others and yourself.

Family time

CONVERSATION STARTERS: • Acknowledge your child for a time they showed Kindness to you. Be specific about what they did and how it made you feel. • Who in our neighborhood or community might need our Kindness? How will we be able to tell? • Talk about a time when someone was unkind to you. What do you wish the person would have done differently?

February - Perseverance: the ability to work through situations even when there are obstacles or challenges in the way.

Family Time

Work together to create an "I Will" statement to help your children live out the value of Perseverance. For example: "I will fall down 10 times and get up 11." Once they have their own "I Will" intentions, invite them to write them down and post them on the bathroom mirror that they use, so they can see it and be reminded every time they brush their teeth.

Character Trait Beads, how many does your child have?

Character Spark Bead!

_____ is a Spark! She/He earned the bead for the trait _____. She/He demonstrated this trait by _____.

Bead Color Chart

Green – Cooperation, Perseverance, Gratitude Red – Courage
Orange Responsibility, Respect

Blue – Gratitude, Creativity
Purple – Empathy Light Purple - Kindness
